Death of a Guru Rabindranath R. Maharaj 2004-01-22 Rabindranath R Maharaj was descended from a long line of Brahmin priests and trained as a Yogi. He meditated for many hours each day, but gradually disillusionment set in. In DEATH OF A GURU he describes vividly and honestly Hindu life and customs, tracing his difficult search for meaning and his struggle to choose between Hinduism and Christ. At a time when Eastern mysticism and religion fascinate many in the West, Maharaj offers fresh and important insights from the perspective of his own experience. DEATH OF A GURU has long been an excellent seller on HCB's backlist. It is the best-known Hindu to Christianity conversion story and has been used widely for evangelistic purposes. This edition carries an exciting new cover.

Chasing the Dragon Jackie Pullinger 2012-01-19 Until it was pulled down, the Walled City was Hong Kong's most foreboding territory. It was a lawless place, dominated by the Triads, and which the police hesitated to enter. Strangers were unwelcome. Drug smuggling and heroin addiction flourished, as did prostitution and pornography, extortion and fear. When Jackie Pullinger set sail from England in 1966 she had no idea that God was calling her to the Walled City. Yet, as she spoke of Jesus Christ, brutal Triad gangsters were converted, prostitutes quit, and Jackie discovered a new treatment for drug addiction: baptism in the Holy Spirit.

Visual Studies James Elkins 2013-09-13 In his latest book, James Elkins offers a road map through the field of visual studies, describing its major concerns and its principal theoretical sources. Then, with the skill and insight that have marked his successful books on art and visuality, Elkins takes the reader down a side road where visual studies can become a more interesting place. Why look only at the same handful of theorists? Why exclude from one's field of vision non-Western art or the wealth of scientific images?

Bruchko Bruce Olson 2006-07-18 What happens when a nineteen-year-old boy leaves home and heads into the jungles to evangelize a murderous tribe of South American Indians? For Bruce Olson, it meant capture, disease, terror, loneliness, and torture. But what he discovered by trial and error has revolutionized then world of missions. Bruchko, which has sold more than 300,000 copies worldwide, has been called "more fantastic and harrowing than anything Hollywood could concoct." Living with the Motilone Indians since 1961, Olson has won the friendship of four presidents of Colombia and has made appearances before the United Nations because of his efforts. Bruchko includes the story of his 1988 kidnapping by communist guerrillas and the nine months of captivity that followed. This revised version of Olson's story will amaze you and remind you that simple faith in Christ can make anything possible. "[Bruchko is] an all-time missionary classic. Bruce Olson is a modern missionary hero who has modeled for us in our time the reaching of the unreached tribes." --Loren Cunningham Co-founder, Youth With A Mission

Umbo - Photographer Annelie Lütgens 2020-09-03 UMBO - the »big bang« in modern photography UMBO - at the latest since Herbert Molderings' 1995 retrospective of the artist, this name stands for a kind of »big bang« in modern photography in the mid-1920s: UMBO, born in 1902 in Düsseldorf as Otto Maximilian Umbehrr, the second of ten children of a civil engineer and a teacher, is considered the inventor of the image of the New Woman, the new image of the street, and photographic reportage per se. His name stands for the departure of the German Youth Movement of the Wandervogel from the Wilhelminian era to the early Bauhaus. He also represents the media metropolis Berlin in the 1920s, spurred above all by immigrants from Eastern Europe, for a rapidly developing film, music, theater and cabaret scene, for glimpses into the backyards and kitchens of overflowing tenement houses. UMBO: This is the young artist plagued by self-doubt who becomes famous as a photographer almost overnight thanks to the impulses received by his Bauhaus teacher Johannes Itten and his artist friend Paul Citroen and hence participates in all important avant-garde exhibitions of his time; and who, according to the narrative, lives through National Socialism as an »anti« whose Berlin studio and archive is completely destroyed by bombs in 1943, and whose attempt to revive his former existence as a photographer of the avant-garde fails during the economic miracle of the West German post-war period in Hanover; whose expressive early, then new work is rediscovered in the 1970s; and who, in 1979, shortly before his death, has his first solo exhibition in a museum context in the Spectrum photo gallery at the »Kunstmuseum Hannover and Sprengel Collection«. The publication, which presents a selection of 200 works and numerous documents, is essentially based on UMBO's estate. Protected and moved for decades by Phyllis Umbehrr, the artist's daughter, and gallery owner - Rudolf Kicken, UMBO's estate was acquired in 2016 thanks to the commitment of numerous partners by the Bauhaus Dessau Foundation, the Berlinische Galerie and the Sprengel Museum Hannover. More than 600 photographs and extensive source material, supplemented by earlier acquisitions of the partner institutions Berlinische Galerie and Bauhaus Dessau Foundation, and, in the case of the Sprengel Museum Hannover, from the postwar archive REPORT / Simon Guttmann, London, form the background. And yet, the question of how this photographer related to the complex histories of his time can only be answered rather vaguely: Only those early pictures have been preserved that UMBO passed on as his best to friends, or presented to a few collectors. In addition, in the course of digitizing image stocks, images tend to resurface that circulated - not always under UMBO's name - in press agencies and publishers from those years. Nevertheless, the material, - supplemented by selected press releases, yields a highly complex, dazzling image, an artist biography of the 20th century full of discontinuities, fractures and unanswered questions. Not least, it revolves around the failure of the avant-garde and the difficulty of following up on their successes after the Second World War. The publication UMBO. PHOTOGRAPHER therefore offers the opportunity to re-examine the many projections associated with the name UMBO, more than two decades after the first retrospective.

Venices Paul Morand 2013-04-02 "It is after experiencing life that I have returned here to think about myself." Paul Morand was a diplomat, traveller, socialite and one of the most erudite and original writers of the twentieth century. Venices is his typically unconventional autobiography: an evocative account of a remarkable life lived surrounded by the remarkable. Its poised, impressionistic, poetically vivid scenes add up year-by-year to a rich meditation, full of astonishing portraits and memories, joy as well as melancholy. Though Morand's reputation was marred for years by his involvement with the collaborationist Vichy government, this book, in its effortless elegance, demonstrates why his influence has been so great. The thread that holds it taut throughout is Venice, the city to which Morand always returned.
