Bombardier Abroad David P. Thomas 2018-10-10T00:00:00Z In Bombardier Abroad, Thomas examines several cases of the Canadian aerospace giant's work in the high-speed rail sector in South Africa, China/Tibet, and Israel/Palestine and argues that these projects are deepening existing social and political tensions. By participating in these infrastructure projects, Thomas argues, Bombardier is both inserting itself into highly contested social and political climates and profiting from actions that further exacerbate existing conditions of dispossession and inequality. Thomas also examines the various ways in which the Canadian state supports the work of Bombardier in these countries. Centred around a theoretical framework that combines concepts of dispossession, political economy and important interventions from the field of settler colonial studies, Bombardier Abroad is a critical look at the problematic practices of a Canadian corporation and the ways in which the Canadian state is culpable.

The Report: South Africa 2014 Oxford Business Group 2014-12-08 Indeed, since the end of apartheid in 1994 South Africa has become a major diplomatic player both on the African continent as well as further afield. Despite the size of South Africa's economy, the country currently faces a number of major economic challenges. As of the end of July 2014 the unemployment rate was at 25.5%, according to data from Statistics South Africa, which was among the highest in the world. While the government's long-term development plans are generally highly regarded, delivery and execution has occasionally been problematic. While there are major hurdles that must be cleared, given the country's strong institutions and the rapid pace of economic expansion over the past two decades, South Africa should be able to look forward to 20 more years of peace and steady, sustained economic growth.

Applied Business Statistics Trevor Wegner 1993 Applied Business Statistics: Methods and Excel-based applications (second edition) is an introductory Statistics text written specifically for Management students who require an understanding of the role of Statistics in analysing business data in fields such as Marketing, Finance, Human Resources, Production and Logistics. The primary focus of this text is to empower management students with statistical decision making skills so that they become active participants rather than passive observers in business situations where statistical findings are reported and discussed as part of a management decision making process. The text is divided into three major sections: „h exploratory data analysis „h statistical inferences, and „h statistical modelling. Each section focuses on a different role of Statistics as a decision support tool. Emphasis is therefore placed on: „h the data requirements for the various techniques and issues of data quality „h identifying likely application areas through numerous illustrative examples „h noting the limitations of techniques for decision analysis, and the valid management interpretation of statistical findings. A new feature of this edition of Applied Business Statistics is the use of computer software such as Excel to perform statistical analysis. Excel's statistical capabilities are illustrated through numerous worked examples found in the text. Students are given the opportunity to familiarize themselves with Excel's statistical capabilities by applying them to data sets of business problems, which are available on the accompanying CD. Students can monitor their learning with the help of the exercises at the end of every chapter. Each statistical technique is developed through business-related worked examples drawn from the author's diverse work experiences as a statistical consultant. In this way, a student can readily grasp the basic concept of the technique as well as see how it would be applied in practice. This combination of method and application should prove helpful to both student and lecturer. With a working knowledge of Excel, students can become managers who are able to design and conduct their own statistical analysis in the workplace. Applied Business Statistics is therefore accessible to all students, as only a basic level of mathematical ability is required to work through this book.

Marking Matric Vijay Reddy 2006 The past ten years in South Africa has seen many changes in education - the creation of a single department of education; common examinations for all learners in public schools in the country, a new outcomes based education curriculum which was introduced to learners in the general education and training phase since 1998 and will be introduced to the further education and training phase from 2006. To evaluate the success of these changes South African researchers still use the indicator of student achievement. The matriculation examination is the visible, high profile and public performance indicator. Every year parents, learners, teachers, researchers, government officials, policymakers, and the general public get involved in the debate around the matric examination with the most frequently asked questions being - Did the pass rate go up? Are standards dropping? Are the results real or have they been manipulated? How is our education system doing? Are we meeting the development goals? What should the matriculation examination of the future look like? participants from government (national and provincial),
