Le parole per scriverlo Wanda Tommasi 2020-10-01T00:00:00+02:00 Il libro analizza l'opera di alcune scrittrici che sono state capaci di un'elaborazione del dolore felicemente risolta sul piano letterario. La prima tappa, che parte da Irène Némirowsky e da Marie Cardinal, rende conto di un difficile guadagno di libertà fatto all'interno di una relazione madre-figlia conflittuale, ma che approda infine a una riparazione. La seconda tappa si occupa dello sradicamento e della perdita della lingua materna in Ágota Kristóf. La terza parla dell'accettazione della limitatezza nella narrativa di Flannery O'Connor: secondo l'autrice, l'intima accoglienza della propria fragilità apre una crepa salvifica in cui può insinuarsi la grazia. L'ultima tappa, dedicata a Anna Maria Ortese, riflette sul tema della perdita e raccoglie l'invito dell'autrice a un amore e a una compassione universali, che si rivolgono non solo agli esseri umani più sfortunati, ma a tutte le creature e all'intera natura, la cui violazione ha condotto l'umanità in un vicolo cieco.

Paseos literarios por la Europa intercultural Margarita Alfaro, Yolanda García y Beatriz Mangada (coord.) 2014-01-20 Paseos literarios por la Europa intercultural reúne un conjunto de estudios literarios relativos a autores y autoras de orígenes diversos que enriquecen el panorama literario actual europeo cada vez más orientado hacia la interculturalidad. Se trata de un volumen colectivo en el que tienen cabida escritores cuya representaciones literarias son ilustrativas del mundo francófono (Vassilis Alexakis, Djavann Chahdortt, Andrée Chédid, Agota Kristof, Ana Novac, Wei-Wei), germanoparlante (Irena Brezná, Yoko Tawada), árabe (Adonis, Mahmud Darwish) y portugués (José Eduardo Agualusa, Mia Couto). Cada una de las lenguas de escritura elegidas (francés, alemán, árabe y portugués) son un ejemplo de la riqueza del mosaico lingüístico europeo y de las posibilidades estéticas y expresivas que ofrece.

Des articles sont également consacrés à des revues littéraires telles qu'Acéphale, les Cahiers du Sud, Critique, la N.R.F. ou Tel Quel, au surréalisme ou à l'évolution du roman français. Un index facilite la consultation du Dictionnaire de la Littérature française du XXe siècle, auquel ont collaboré près de 200 auteurs, parmi lesquels Antoine Compagnon, Jean-Louis Joubert, Jacques Lecarme, Daniel Oster, Michel P. Schmitt, Jean-Yves Tadié.

The Illiterate Agota Kristof 2014-01-14 This story of exile and loss, of how, for the refugee, the country in which she eventually settles, however kind and well-meaning its inhabitants, will always be a poor and inadequate substitute for the country of one's birth, its language always an alien thing, however proficient she becomes in it - this is the story of so many people today that it is perhaps the story of our time. This is Agota Kristof's memoirs.

Tattooed Memory Abdelkébir Khatibi 2016-07-02 Tattooed Memory (La Mémoire tatouée) is the first novel of the great Moroccan critic and novelist Abdelkébir Khatibi (1938-2009). Only one other novel has been translated into English (Love In Two Languages, 1991). Khatibi belongs to the generation following the foundational generation of writers such as Driss Chraïbi. For Khatibi's generation, French colonialism is a vibrant memory - but a memory from childhood. Tattooed Memory is part bildungsroman, part anticolonial treatise, and part language experiment, and it takes us from earliest childhood memory to young adulthood.

Dictionnaire des Écrivains francophones Encyclopaedia Universalis, 2018-02-21 Les plus grands spécialistes pour tout savoir les écrivains francophones Le Dictionnaire des écrivains francophones réunit plus de cent soixante articles empruntés au fonds de l'Encyclopædia Universalis. À travers des œuvres aussi diverses que celles de Léopold Sédar Senghor, Aimé Césaire, Kateb Yacine, Georges Schéhadé ou Patrick Chamoiseau, on voit comment les littératures francophones ont progressivement affirmé leur existence propre en même temps que s'affirmait la notion de « francophonie », au moment des décolonisations, lorsqu'on prit conscience que le français, loin de se réduire à une identité nationale, pouvait exprimer les valeurs et les rêves des peuples les plus divers. Comment proclamer à travers la langue une spécificité culturelle, tout en s'éloignant du modèle centralisateur français ? Ce souci se manifeste dès la fin du XIXe siècle chez les écrivains de Belgique (Émile Verhaeren, Maurice Maeterlinck, Henry Bauchau et Pierre Mertens), ainsi que dans la littérature québécoise des années 1960 et de la « révolution tranquille » (Gaston Miron, Réjean Ducharme), ou dans la littérature de Suisse romande (Jacques Chessex, Nicolas Bouvier, Philippe Jaccottet). Enfin, une place est faite aux écrivains de l'exil (Benjamin Fondane, Victor Serge ou François Cheng) et à ceux qui ont fait du français une langue capable de transcender frontières et identités (Alain Mabanckou, Dany Laferrière, Wajdi Mouawad). L'ouvrage de référence immanquable dans le domaine de la littérature francophone ! À PROPOS DES DICTIONNAIRES D'UNIVERSALIS Reconnue mondialement pour la qualité et la fiabilité incomparable de ses publications, Encyclopædia Universalis met la connaissance à la portée de tous. Sa collection de dictionnaires répertorie les grands concepts et notions de notre société dans des domaines aussi divers que la philosophie, la religion, l'économie, la littérature, l'architecture, etc. À PROPOS DE L'ENCYCLOPAEDIA UNIVERSALIS Écrite par plus de 7 400 auteurs spécialistes de renommée internationale et riche de près de 30 000 médias (vidéos, photos, cartes, dessins...), Encyclopaedia Universalis offre des réponses d'une grande qualité dans toutes les disciplines et sur tous les grands domaines de la connaissance. This "Self" Which Is Not One Natalie Edwards 2010-03-08 The "Self" Which is Not One: Women's Life-Writing in French, assembles articles on women's life-writing from diverse areas of the Francophone world. It is comprised of nine chapters that discuss female writers from North Africa, Sub-Saharan Africa, the Caribbean and Europe, in addition to French writers. The idea of the self is currently attracting widespread interest in academia, most notably in the arts and humanities. The development of postmodernism supposes a fragmented "subject" formed from the network of available discourses, rather than a stable and coherent self. Jacques Derrida, for example, wrote that there is no longer any such things as a "full subject," and Julia Kristeva now insists that the individual is a "subject in process." The growing importance of psychoanalytic theory, particular in French studies, has also impacted upon this development. The basic tenet of psychoanalytic theory is that the individual is formed of a duality: the conscious and unconscious parts of the self which prevent the individual from ever fully knowing her/himself, and which thus insists upon a plural, incomplete self. Developments in the field of postcolonial studies have also made us aware of different ways of approaching the self in different parts of the world, and eroded the idea of a stable, conscious and complete self. As scholars examine these new ways of approaching the self, autobiography has been the subject of renewed interest. Several academic books have appeared in recent years that study the ways in which autobiographers represent the self as incomplete, evolving and elusive. In particular, a number of books have appeared on the subject of women's autobiography and female subjectivity, such as works by Sidonie Smith, Julia Watson and Nancy Miller, and several volumes interrogate postcolonial women's autobiography, such as texts by Françoise Lionnet, Gayatri Spivak, Carole Boyce Davies and Chandra Mohanty. Our volume unites these strands of criticism, by examining ways that female autobiographies write the self as a fragmented, plural construct across the Francophone world. This will be the first book-length study of this important development. This volume will be of interest primarily to students and scholars working in the areas of life-writing, French and Francophone studies, postcolonial studies and gender studies. The volume contributes to multiple areas that are currently garnering substantial interest in academe: postcolonial studies, Francophone studies, gender studies and women's writing. By comparing works from across the Francophone world, our volume takes a global approach to the genre of autobiography and its inflections by women writers. The "Self" That is Not One in Women's Autobiography in French therefore represents a timely intervention in several interlinking academic fields and will thus garner substantial interest.

Heritage Miguel Bonnefoy 2022-04-14 A story of men and women setting out in search of new adventures, blown off course by illness, war and strokes of fate, this exuberant Franco-Chilean family saga spans a hundred years, two world wars, four generations and two continents in the space of ten short chapters.

Narratives of Place, Belonging and Language Máiréad Nic Craith 2012-02-10 Examining identity in relation to globalization and migration, this book uses narratives and memoirs from contemporary authors who have lived 'in-between' two or more languages. It explores the human desire to find one's 'own place' in new cultural contexts, and looks at the role of language in shaping a sense of belonging in society.

Yesterday Ágota Kristóf 2019-09-18 "Ágota Kristóf packs volumes into this elegant shape-shifting novella. It's simultaneously a sly exploration of storytelling and a powerful narrative about immigration and the pitfalls of starting over in a new country. Yesterday is a necessary and uncannily timely work by one of the unsung geniuses of contemporary literature." – Jeff Jackson, author of Destroy All Monsters and Mira Corpora In spare, elegant prose, this modern novella recounts a troubled young man's flight from a judgmental village. Tobias, the illegitimate son of a prostitute and the local schoolmaster, finds peace with a factory job in the comfortable anonymity of a city. But his fragile respite is shattered by the appearance of Caroline, his boyhood love, who materializes with a husband and child in tow. This Dover edition marks Yesterday's first U.S. publication. Originally written in French by Hungarian author Ágota Kristóf, this haunting exploration of dislocation, the search for love and belonging, and life as an emigrant continues to resonate today. "Offers a lucid, poignant narrative of the struggle to find meaning in a world of 'unbearable waiting and . . . inexpressible silence.'" – Publishers Weekly "Many of Kristóf's stark vignettes, reported in unflinching detail...have a cool, disturbing power – part documentary-like, part surreal – that is fierce and distinctive." – Kirkus Reviews "Ágota Kristóf tackles the theme of the double and the irreparable damage caused by severance from one's roots with a writing of rare sobriety and a spareness which, avoiding all superfluous sentimentality, goes right to the heart." – Marie Claire "Kristóf – most brilliant when she is blackest – plots a denouement that lies on the bleaker side of black. Read it, shudder, and utter thanks." – Scotland on Sunday

Literature of the Global Age Maurizio Ascari 2014-01-10 In an age of world citizenship, literary scholarship is focusing increasingly on texts which communicate effectively over cultural lines. Advocating a planetary approach to contemporary literature, this critical text examines eight novels from eight cultures. The writers discussed are Julian Barnes, Magda Szabo, Abraham B. Yehoshua, Ian McEwan, W.G. Sebald, Murakami Haruki, Jonathan Safran Foer, and Azar Nafisi. Focusing on the authors' encouragement to meditate on life's most pressing issues, the essays here invite us to reevaluate postmodernism as a current category.

For Bread Alone Mohamed Choukri 2012-02-13 Driven by famine from their home in the Rif, Mohamed's family walks to Tangier in search of a better life. But things are no better there. Eight of Mohamed's siblings die of malnutrition and neglect, and one is killed by his father in a fit of rage. On moving to another province Mohamed learns how to charm and steal, and discovers the joys of drugs, sex and alcohol. Proud, insolent and afraid of no one, he returns to Tangier, where he is caught up in the violence of the 1952 independence riots. It is here, during a short spell in a filthy Moroccan jail, that a fellow inmate kindles Mohamed's life-altering love of literature. 'A true document of human desperation, shattering in its impact.' Tennessee Williams 'Its unrelenting realism has produced a masterpiece ... In Choukri's African Islamic coastal cities the nightmares are of fathers killing children and the agony of hunger. Choukri's memories take him from famine in the Rif to Tangier and Oran, a world of crime, paid-for sex and of living poor ... It is an urban pain where every day "the alleys swallow me up and spew me out." A book to read, cherish and remember - and to show us again why we need books as well as bread.' Morning Star '(An) extraordinarily vivid, uncensored immediacy ... Using only undemonstrative prose, and asking for no special sympathy, Choukri conveys the experience of struggling to survive in a harsh world of dusty streets and unforgiving sunlight.' Guardian 'Five stars ... Achingly elegant ... Choukri's irrepressible, ultimately indomitable spirit is most touching and human.' Independent 'Richly descriptive and engaging ... an honest and vivid account. ... Definitely an enjoyable and worthwhile read.' Socialist Review 'A cult classic ... Choukri's text has become a staple on the syllabi of modern Arabic, comparative literature, and post-colonial studies programs.' Daily Star 'The most poetic exploration of that world of vice, coffee, conversation and intrigue ... One of the most widely read modernist novels in the Arab world.' Outsideleft.com

Dézafi Frankétienne 2018-10-30 Dézafi is no ordinary zombie novel. In the hands of the great Haitian author known simply as Frankétienne, zombification takes on a symbolic dimension that stands as a potent commentary on a country haunted by a history of slavery. Now this dynamic new translation brings this touchstone in Haitian literature to English-language readers for the first time. Written in a provocative experimental style, with a myriad of voices and combining myth, poetry, allegory, magical realism, and social realism, Dézafi tells the tale of a plantation that is run and worked by zombies for the financial benefit of the living owner. The owner's daughter falls in love with a zombie and facilitates his transformation back into fully human form, leading to a rebellion that challenges the oppressive imbalance that had robbed the workers of their spirit. With the walking dead and bloody cockfights (the "dézafi" of the title) as cultural metaphors for Haitian existence, Frankétienne's novel is ultimately a powerful allegory of political and social liberation.

Life Is So Good George Dawson 2013-05-07 One man's extraordinary journey through the twentieth century and how he learned to read at age 98 "Things will be all right. People need to hear that. Life is good, just as it is. There isn't anything I would change about my life."—George Dawson In this remarkable book, George Dawson, a slave's grandson who learned to read at age 98 and lived to the age of 103, reflects on his life and shares valuable lessons in living, as well as a fresh, firsthand view of America during the entire sweep of the twentieth century. Richard Glaubman captures Dawson's irresistible voice and view of the world, offering insights into humanity, history, hardships, and happiness. From segregation and civil rights, to the wars and the presidents, to defining moments in history, George Dawson's description and assessment of the last century inspires readers with the message that has sustained him through it all: "Life is so good. I do believe it's getting better." WINNER OF THE CHRISTOPHER AWARD "A remarkable autobiography . . . the feel-good story of the year."—The Christian Science Monitor "A testament to the power of perseverance."—USA Today "Life Is So Good is about character, soul and spirit. . . . The pride in standing his ground is matched—maybe even exceeded—by the accomplishment of [George Dawson's] hard-won education."—The Washington Post "Eloquent . . . engrossing . . . an astonishing and unforgettable memoir."—Publishers Weekly Look for special features inside. The History of Illiteracy in the Modern World Since 1750 Martyn Lyons 2022-12-30 This Palgrave Pivot examines the history of literacy with illiterate and semi-literate people in mind, and questions the clear division between literacy and illiteracy which has often been assumed by social and economic historians. Instead, it turns the spotlight on all those in-between, the millions who had some literacy skills, but for whom reading and writing posed difficulties. Its main focus is on those we have often labelled 'illiterates', rather than those who enjoyed full competence in reading and writing in modern society. In offering a historical perspective on the 'problem' of illiteracy in the modern world, it also questions some enduring myths surrounding the phenomenon. This book therefore has a revisionist objective: it intends to challenge conventional wisdom about illiteracy.

d'expression française Vassilis Alexakis, lauréat du prix Médicis en 1995 et du Grand prix du roman de l'Académie française en 2007. Les schémas de dépossessions culturelles, de quêtes linguistiques, de crises identitaires et de déplacements géographiques propres aux écrits d'Alexakis y sont analysés selon trois axes (autofictionnel, linguistique et spatial) dans les œuvres publiées entre 1974 et 2007 afin de révéler une esthétique du déplacement qui permet à l'auteur de se libérer progressivement de la problématique de l'exil. Cette étude critique s'adresse particulièrement à ceux qui s'intéressent aux écrits contemporains en langue française, aux études littéraires francophones, au bilinguisme littéraire ou à l'autotraduction. L'ouvrage comporte un entretien exclusif avec l'auteur effectué en janvier 2010 à Athènes.

Temporality in Life As Seen Through Literature Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka
2007-05-09 With a wealth of papers in its pages, this book examines that fundamental of human philosophy, the relationship between human beings and time. Having the human subject – the creator – at its center, literature is essentially engaged in temporality whether that of the mind or of the world of life through the creative process of writing, stage directing, or the reader's and viewer's reception. This text examines, among others, the work of Proust and Kafka.

Piero Edmond Baudoin 2018-11-06 A touching graphic memoir about brotherhood, coming of age, and artistic inspiration by one of France's most celebrated graphic novelists. Edmond Baudoin is one of the most revered and influential figures in European comics, renowned for his slashing, expressive brushwork and narrative experimentation. New York Review Comics is proud to present the first English translation of his most intimate and inviting book, his graphic memoir of growing up with his beloved brother, Piero. Whether stuck in bed with whooping cough or out exploring in the woods, the two brothers draw together endlessly. They confront Martians, battle octopuses, stage epic battles between medieval castles, and fly high over the earth. Inevitably, they begin to grow apart, and their shared artistic life is replaced by schoolwork, romance, dances, motorcycles, and the struggle to decide what sort of people they want to be. Piero is a delicate, exuberant testament to the joys of childhood and a bittersweet account of what it means to become an adult—and an artist.

The Reader Bernhard Schlink 2001-05-01 Hailed for its coiled eroticism and the moral claims it makes upon the reader, this mesmerizing novel is a story of love and secrets, horror and compassion, unfolding against the haunted landscape of postwar Germany. When he falls ill on his way home from school, fifteen-year-old Michael Berg is rescued by Hanna, a woman twice his age. In time she becomes his lover—then she inexplicably disappears. When Michael next sees her, he is a young law student, and she is on trial for a hideous crime. As he watches her refuse to defend her innocence, Michael gradually realizes that Hanna may be guarding a secret she considers more shameful than murder.
