Coping Systems for Employee Turnover Sebastian Reiche 2003-02-03 Inhaltsangabe:Abstract: As business activities become increasingly global and cross-nationally intertwined, human resource management is no longer defined by national boundaries. In particular, multinational corporations (MNCs) face the challenge of managing their globally dispersed work force effectively. Yet, the field of international human resource management (IHRM) remains an understudied domain, lacking substantial empirical and conceptual research. Also, a prevailing focus on quantitative data suggests a need for deeper qualitative investigations, which allows a more profound assessment of the context in which IHRM unfolds. By addressing IHRM at MNCs, the current empirical work contributes additional scientific insights into this domain. In this respect, the author has selected an approach of inductive comparative case study research, mainly based on qualitative data, that enables the generation of theory through an iterative, data-driven process. This method has been applied to investigate IHRM because it is particularly fruitful when examining new and narrowly developed scientific fields as well as considering contextual conditions. Thus, a multiple case study was conducted through exploratory and semi-structured interviews with managerial employees at six western MNCs which maintain their regional headquarters for South-East Asia in Singapore. The initial guiding objective was to provide a more thorough understanding of the forces that influence IHRM. Due to the exploratory nature of the research set-up, this broad focus has narrowed during the conduct of the study and the subsequent data analysis. Based on the interviews, employee turnover emerged as a key concern for international organizations operating in Singapore. Although a tight local labour market has led to the effect that job turnover is a widespread phenomenon, there is a lack of research addressing this issue and the resulting implications for foreign MNCs. The present study's focus on employee turnover also takes into account the growing importance of local staff for MNCs. Indeed, by acknowledging the critical role that local nationals play at the host country level, it will be increasingly imperative for international organizations to establish effective retention strategies. Despite this obvious significance, the field of managing employee turnover also remains considerably underdeveloped. Building on the results of the conducted multiple case study, the purpose of [...]

Rabekinder Birgit Henriette Lutherer 2019-07-23 Wir lieben unsere Kinder. Sie sind ein Geschenk. Kinder bereichern unser Leben. Wir sehen sie aufwachsen – begleiten sie ins Erwachsen-Werden. Und dann? In der Regel nabelt sich ein Kind von seinen Eltern ab und gründet irgendwann eine eigene Familie. Aus Eltern werden Großeltern. Eine neue Generation betritt die Bühne des Familienlebens. Großeltern, Eltern und Kinder leben in Synergie miteinander. – So der Plan. Doch leider geht es oftmals nicht nach diesem Plan, denn das Leben ist facettenreich und keinesfalls ein Wunschkonzert. Was ist, wenn der Sohn oder die Tochter sich nicht nur abnabelt, sondern, aus welchem Grund auch immer, abwendet? Wenn plötzlich alle Kontakte gekappt werden? Wenn das Kind aus der Reihe tanzt? "Warum geschieht mir das? – Wieso mein Kind? – Was habe ich falsch gemacht?" und weitere Fragen schwirren dann im Kopf der Verlassenen umher. Das Buch "Rabekinder" beschäftigt sich genau mit diesem Thema: Verlassen werden.

Ugandan Children's Literature and Its Implications for Cultural and Global Learning in TEFL Stephanie Schaidt 2018-01-15 The present study adds to TEFL discourse in several ways. First of all, it contributes to the widening of the canon as it focuses on Ugandan childrens fiction. Secondly, the research connects to the few empirical studies that exist in the field. It provides further implications for cultural and global learning and literary didactics in TEFL derived from insights into the mental processes of a group of Year 9 students in Germany engaging with Ugandan childrens fiction within the scope of an extensive reading project.

Semantics and Psychology of Spirituality Heinz Streib 2015-10-16 This book examines what people mean when they say they are "spiritual". It looks at the semantics of "spirituality", the visibility of reasons for "spiritual" preference in biographies, in psychological dispositions, in cultural differences between Germany and the US, and in gender differences. It also examines the kind of biographical consequences that are associated with "spirituality". The book reports the results of an online-questionnaire filled out by 773 respondents in Germany and 1113 in the US, personal interviews with a selected group of more than 100 persons, and an experiment. Based on the data collected, it reports results that are relevant for a number of scientific and practical disciplines. It makes a contribution to the semantics of everyday religious language and to the cross-cultural study of religion and to many related fields as well, because "spirituality" is evaluated in relation to personality, mysticism, well-being, religious styles, generativity, attachment, biography and atheism. The book draws attention to the - new and ever changing - ways in which people give names to their ultimate concern and symbolize their experiences of transcendence.
